The Philadelphia Contributionship Selects EagleEye Analytics for Predictive Analytics

Columbia, SC - EagleEye Analytics, the leading provider of world class predictive analytics solutions to the property and casualty insurance industry, announced today that The Philadelphia Contributionship has selected EagleEye Analytics to be its provider of predictive analytics solutions.

The Contributionship will use EagleEye Analytics' web-based predictive analytics solutions to identify risk characteristics that impact its profitability and growth prospects. Results are rendered in a fraction of the time required by traditional methods and enable insurers to rapidly implement superior underwriting, pricing, and marketing actions.

Robert Whitlock, President and CEO of The Contributionship, the oldest successful property and casualty insurer in the US, stated:, "We selected EagleEye Analytics because their suite of solutions provides powerful analytics that are easy to use, understand and implement. Our technical actuarial staff and our non technical staff can all use their product." Whitlock added, "EagleEye delivered results incredibly fast and we are counting on using these results to help deliver profitable growth."

Terry Wade, CEO of EagleEye Analytics commented, "We are extremely honored to count The Contributionship amongst our customers. Their long successful track record of delivering to their customers is very impressive. We look forward to playing a role in their exciting plans for the future."
